

Megan Owen VN022

"We were going there, believe it or not, like little kids with little white socks and ponytails, exactly like school kids, and giggling stupidly and not knowing what to expect. We were making powder compacts, and they put us, the young ones, in a room all together to do what they called, um, something small inside the compact holding the powder, that's what we were doing, learning to put satin around it."